His story inspired the Billboard Music Awards Top Christian Song "Hello, My Name Is" by Matthew West. Jordan Jeffers was a seven-time All-American athlete who found himself in the grips of drug addiction while in college. But then God stepped in and healed him and set him free. Jordan will never again introduce himself as a drug addict, but now he says "Hello, my name is child of the One True King".

Jordan joins us this spring to share with us how God created us, loves us, and has a purpose for our lives.
